

Scott Bell is recently retired from Siemens where he was Vice President of Global Sales Operations for the PL Division of Siemens Corporation. He managed global Sales IT systems, policies, and processes. Siemens PLM is a leading global provider of product lifecycle management (PLM) software and services with over 60,000 customers worldwide. PLM Software is targeted at helping companies bring new products to market faster, at a lower cost, and with higher quality.

In his career, Scott has held positions as a sales representative for IBM (5 years) and then for Siemens PL (38 years) as a sales representative, Regional Sales Manager, National Sales Director, Director of Global Sales & Leadership Training, Director of Strategic Planning, Director of Product Marketing, and Vice President of Global Sales Operations.

In 2001, Scott wrote and published a book on selling, "The Art of Competing". Scott has degree in Architecture from the University of Illinois, an MBA from the University of Missouri and has served as a speaker for the UMSL International MBA conference. He is also a certified genealogist.